Proof Reading
Dictation

Activity

After students draft out their ideas, or hand written work, they are to turn on the built–in Dictation function to “type out the text”.

Objectives

- Students can speak clearly and fluently. Students can produce clear and accurate constants, constant clusters and vowel combinations.
- Students can proofread and edit draft through self–reflection, peer–editing.
- Students can review and revise drafts to enhance clarity to achieve precision in expression of meaning.

Extensions

- When giving feedback, teachers can use the Dictation function to replace typing to increase the efficacy of the work.
- Students can use Dictation function to support their typing.
- Students can look at the mind–map created and use the Dictation function to summarise learning.
